Improving the Superintendent Evaluation

Leadership is important and evaluation can be a powerful tool for growth and professional development. Evaluating the superintendent's performance is one of the school board's most important duties. An effective evaluation process, carefully developed, administered, and completed, is not only a record of annual performance, but is a necessary and constructive accountability tool for both superintendents and boards.

This half hour webinar provides a review the principles of effective practice while redefining the context for redefining superintendent evaluation. The focus will be on maximizing the effectiveness of evaluations by ensuring that they are collaborative, efficient, and responsive.
